

ILLINOIS TOLLWAY: MAKING A CONNECTION

CONSTRUCTION BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT CENTER

"As a new company, we would not have been able to successfully and accurately provide the required information, documentations, without your personalized assistance."

*Orah Mahon,
Quality Electrical Construction, Inc.*

The Illinois Tollway's Construction Business Development Center (CBDC) provides free, one-on-one business training and technical assistance to disadvantaged, minority- and women-owned firms, as well as small and veteran-owned businesses to participate as prime and subcontractors on highway and vertical projects.

WHO SHOULD APPLY

Small and or new firms looking to expand (or grow) their businesses and secure work on Tollway projects.

HOW IT WORKS

1. Work directly with a construction business specialist to develop an Individualized Technical Assistance Plan (ITAP).

Using ITAP as your guide, your specialist will assist you via one or a combination of:

- Seminars/workshops
- Access to partner organizations and industry experts
- Personalized assistance—typically done with a consultant

2. Technical assistance may include:

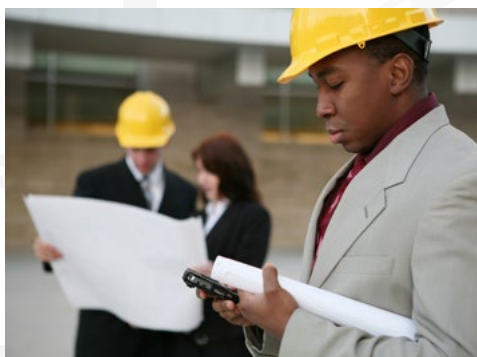

- Accessing Tollway Online Plan Room
- Accounting and finance
- Agency certifications
- Bonding and insurance requirements
- Business and marketing plan development
- Construction-related software training
- Contractor troubleshooting workshops
- Estimating and bidding
- Navigating online Tollway resources
- Project management
- Safety and field operations

3. Submit bids for construction opportunities.
