

Typical Violations Enforcement Timeline*

 Recognizing that there are multiple collection agencies and legal parties involved in the full violations cycle, this graphic provides a general overview of the process, which can take anywhere from nine months to more than two years from the time a violator receives a first violation notice from the Tollway to the point at which a judgment is filed in court.*